never I frequent this location, the quality is just poor. I always order the same item: medium iced coffee cream and sugar) and what I get is cream and sugar over ice. I even ordered one early this morning and it was almost as if there was no coffee flavor whatsoever. This is strange because you'd think it'd be the freshest at this time of day. I will no longer be visiting this particular location.

I grew up having Dunkin Donuts on almost every single street in Rhode Island. By far the worst one I've ever encountered. The manager was blasting more hip hop and rap music then a family oriented station and she was on her phone prior going back to the drive thru for another customer. I wouldn't be surprised if this particular location got robbed due to lack of acknowledgment to walking in customers. The Asian cashier was the only worker making an effort at this particular location to make them better. I'm disgusted that the manager would go to the establishment next door to gossip over restock the franchise or take out the fill in trash can nearby the entrance. I ordered to medium iced coffees through their new to go apps and I strongly believed the manager gave my order to the establishment next door because we weren't on their time for a pick up. Dunkin Donuts doesn't pay her to play with her fingers and I'm more then confident she's one of the few in Vegas expecting a raise for $15. Puntaaa it ain't going to happen. She needs a stern hand from regional manager for termination. Once they fire her and start from square one for rebranding the South Rainbow Blvd then I can see improvement til then the worst I've ever encountered.

I only come here for the hot coffee. It's the best! Wasn't too impressed with the donut though. Wish there is one in CA. Every time in Vegas have to hit this place up. Right after getting off the freeway.

This is the worst dunkin donuts I've been to and will not be going back. There is a Starbucks right next to them and a Coffee Bean that I will stick to from now on. I'm not usually one to complain but I've given this location too many chances to get it right and they've failed every time. When I order a hot coffee I expect it to be hot and fresh. When I order a croissant I expect to get it without hair. When I order a bagel toasted I expect them to toast it. I'm done with this place.

Being from the east coast I grew up on dunkin Donuts so I should have a bias. I do have to say however that I'm annoyed by how often my order gets messed up at this location. And it's usually when I'm 5 minutes down the road when I realize it. I'm waving the white flag on this one.

I came in on Labor day one morning w/ my kids, nephew & niece. The place was a mess. The staff looked really stressed out.

I normally like to make my own breakfast, but I made plans to take the kids to Spring Preserves that day so I figured we'd have a quick easy breakfast somewhere on the way.

I feel bad for the kids because everything they tried to order on the menu was unavailable. How inconvenient. They settled for a bagel w/ cream cheese & 3 donuts.

The smoothies were not good. The children hardly drank them. My coffee was ok. I have a habit of trying pieces of my children's food & I was not pleased. They didn't even have any organic products like some of the other coffee shops. The bagel, donuts & drinks we had was a waste of $30

It's funny, because I was joking w/ my sister later on that day how I squandered $30 on crappy breakfast at Dunkin Donut's & for lunch we had such an amazing delicious meal w/ huge great portions & excellent service at Komex for the exact same price.

Service was ok. To be honest, w/ my experiences from food chains, I never expect good service. Not like when you go to locally owned establishments where you find upbeat & positive personalities serving or assisting you. Nothing special here. With all the other great coffee shops in town, I don't think I'll be back. The service was good. I went in to try the new cocoa yeast donuts. Yuck is all I can say. I love Dunkin Donuts. Just not the new cocoa yeast. They were honestly dry and had no taste at all. Save your money and do not try these. Stick to your favorites.

Very friendly professional staff. We had a nice birthday breakfast before going to school. Place was clean and the food was yummy. A piece of the east coast which I love.

They got our order wrong twice, we had to walk all the way back to get the food right the second time it was made incorrectly.

Tuve problemas con la codificación UTF 8, que me impidió probar varias cosas y debuguear el código.

Resultados:

Como no pude correr bien el programa por el problema con la codificación de caracteres, no tengo resultados concretos que mostrar. Sin embargo ejecuté el código con un set de 10.000 datos que extraje con otro script de Python, y asumo que requiere de un tiempo menor de procesamiento que con el de 30.000 datos.
